Who is organising this study?

The study is organised by the School of Psychology at the University of Kent. The researchers are Scott Claessens and Jim Everett.

What will I need to do?

Participation in this study will involve reading several short scenarios and answering some questions. Please use a desktop computer, laptop, or tablet to complete the survey.

Is the study likely to cause any discomfort or anxiety?

We expect the survey to cause no greater harm than would typically be experienced in everyday life. We will not ask you about subjects that are likely to be sensitive (e.g., negative memories, sexual preferences).

What happens if I wish to end the study early?

You are free to leave the study at any point for any reason. No negative consequences or penalties will be incurred.

Are my responses anonymous?

All responses are fully anonymous and your answers are strictly confidential. No details will be disclosed from which your identity could be traced back.

What happens to the information I provide?

Information generated from this study may be published. In this case, only broad trends will be reported. A summary of the results will be available from the researchers on request. Your responses (fully anonymous) will be used by the research team, and may be shared with other researchers, or made available in an online data repository.

AttentionCheck

In studies like ours, there are sometimes a few people who do not carefully read the questions they are asked and just "quickly click through the survey." These random answers are problematic because they compromise the results of the studies. It is very important that you pay attention and read each question. In order to show that you read our questions carefully (and regardless of your own opinion), please answer "TikTok" in the question on the next page.

When an important event is happening or is about to happen, many people try to get informed about the development of the situation. In such situations, where do you get your information from?

Introduction

In this study, you will read several short scenarios in which a person completes an everyday task.

For each scenario, you will be asked a series of questions about the person. Please answer these questions carefully.

In this study, you will read several short scenarios in which a person uses an artificial intelligence (AI) tool to help them complete an everyday task.

In each scenario, the person uses a "personalised" AI tool that has been trained and fine-tuned on their own prior writings. Unlike generic AI tools like ChatGPT, these personalised AI tools have been tailored to each specific person and their own thoughts, feelings, and values.

For each scenario, you will be asked a series of questions about the person. Please answer these questions carefully.
